Terms and Conditions

By accessing and continuing to use this website, you agree and acknowledge that you do so under the terms set out here. In these terms, references to "CAL", "the firm", "we", "us", "our" and "ours" mean Chancery Advisors Limited.

From time to time we may provide publications, briefings, newsletters, presentations and other material (all "Material") on this website. The legal commentary and information contained in the Material is for general information and illustrative purposes only, does not seek to be exhaustive or an attempt to consider every issue relevant to the particular topic and does not constitute legal advice. Further, the provision of such Material does not create a business or professional services relationship and we accept no responsibility or liability to users or any third parties in relation to the use of the Material or its contents. Accordingly, you should always seek relevant and specific advice before taking any action and any reliance on such Material is at your own risk.

All copyright, trademarks and other intellectual property in or arising out of the Material, save where expressly otherwise noted, vests in us. You agree not to modify, copy, reproduce, disclose to third parties or derive commercial use or benefit from the Material without our express prior written consent. You further agree not to use (or permit the use) of the Material for a purpose that is either illegal or would, or would be likely, to bring CAL or our business into disrepute.

These terms shall be governed and construed in accordance with English law.

Complaints

We will try to resolve complaints quickly and directly with you. If you have a complaint, please contact the person you are dealing with at the firm. We will provide full details of our Complaints Handling Procedure on request, if you have made a complaint. If we cannot resolve a complaint, the Solicitors Regulatory Authority and the Legal Ombudsman provide resolution services for certain types of complaint. Please note that complaints to be processed by the Legal Ombudsman should normally be made within six months of receiving a final written response from us about your complaint.
